entertain the motion to consider a second list of delegates, but will insist upon waiting for the report of the committee on credentials. If he does this, Roosevelt leaders will move at once to proceed to the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt. In other words, the Roosevelt delegates would attempt to hold a convention of their own in the convention hall.

After midnight the Roosevelt forces agreed to enter senator Borah as their candidate against senator Root for temporary chairman. Governor Hadley, of Missouri, was selected as floor leader.

Roosevelt and Rosewater Confer.

Roosevelt and Rosewater Confer.

Col. Roosevelt last night conferred more than an hour with chairman Rosewater, who sought the interview through E Mont Reilly, of Kansas City, a mutual friend. Mr. Rosewater explained to the colonel that in making rollings in the national committee on contest cases he had followed the parliamentary practice that had always governed the deliberations of that body. Col. Roosevelt directed severe criticism against individual members of the committee but Mr. Rosewater is said to have escaped these strictures. Finally committee but Mr. Rosewater is said to have escaped these strictures. Finally the colonel demanded to know what Mr. Rosewater's stititude would be when the Boosevelt forces proposed to substitute a new temporary roll for that prepared by the committee. "The rules of the committee will apply," answered Mr. Rosewater. When asked if he would not consent to submit the question to the convention Mr. Rosewater is said to have asked for time in which to consider the question.

"That's nonsense," he said.

"But in the event the delegates whose election you consider fraudulent are seated." he was asked, "can your delegates give countenance to the act by sitting in a convention with them."

Col. Roosevelt paused for a moment to consider his answer.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it." he said at last.

"The convention will never recognize fraudulent delegates." said James R. Garfield, of Ohio. "It would be an honest delegation."

The hat was in the air throughout the automobile ride from La Salle street station to the Congress hotel, waving salutes of acknowledgment of the cheers that marked the former president's progress.

Mr. Roosevelt would not discuss his probable appearance on the convention floor, but there was no doubt among the delegates that he would be there. Chairman New said Mr. Roosevelt had not applied for a sent

"If he does apply we will do the best we can for him," said Col. New, "but unfortunately all of the good seats are gone."

Three Bands Greet Him.

Three Bands Greet Him.

Early in the day it was announced at the Roosevelt headquarters that the colonely arrival would be devoid of the spectacular. Many delegates, however, would not believe this and when the train bearing the candidate rolled into the station there were three bands and a cheering multitude to greet him. The California delegation, the most aggressive and outspoken of the Roosevelt adherents—a delegation which issued a but thinly veiled threat of independent action if things did not go well for the colonel in the convention—marched to the station in a body and escorted Col. Roosevelt to his hotel. They hore aloft a banner which read—"California refuses to try title to properly before the thier who stole it," and reverse side: "California solid 26 for Theodore Roosevelt."

The streets from the station to the hotel were lined with people.

Col. Rôosevelt stood up in his motor car the entire distance waving his hat and smiling in characteristic fashien. The band which led the way kept up a continuous crash of music while the two in the rear were equally busy. The tune that was most in favor was the battle song of San Juan hill and Santlago, "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight."

When the vast throng in front of his hotel was clamoring for the colonel to appear and make an address the bands played, "Hal, hail, the gang's all here.
